

A digital workplace needs integrations

How Microsoft 365 and Atlassian can be connected

Why can we travel comfortably along such paths?

Warum können wir bequem
über solche Wege fahren?

Because suspension and damping offer us this comfort, so that we don't notice anything.

Why can we access easily information from different sources?

Warum können wir bequem auf Informationen

aus verschiedenen Quellen zurückgreifen?
Because integrations make it easier for us to access
so that we have as few obstacles as possible.

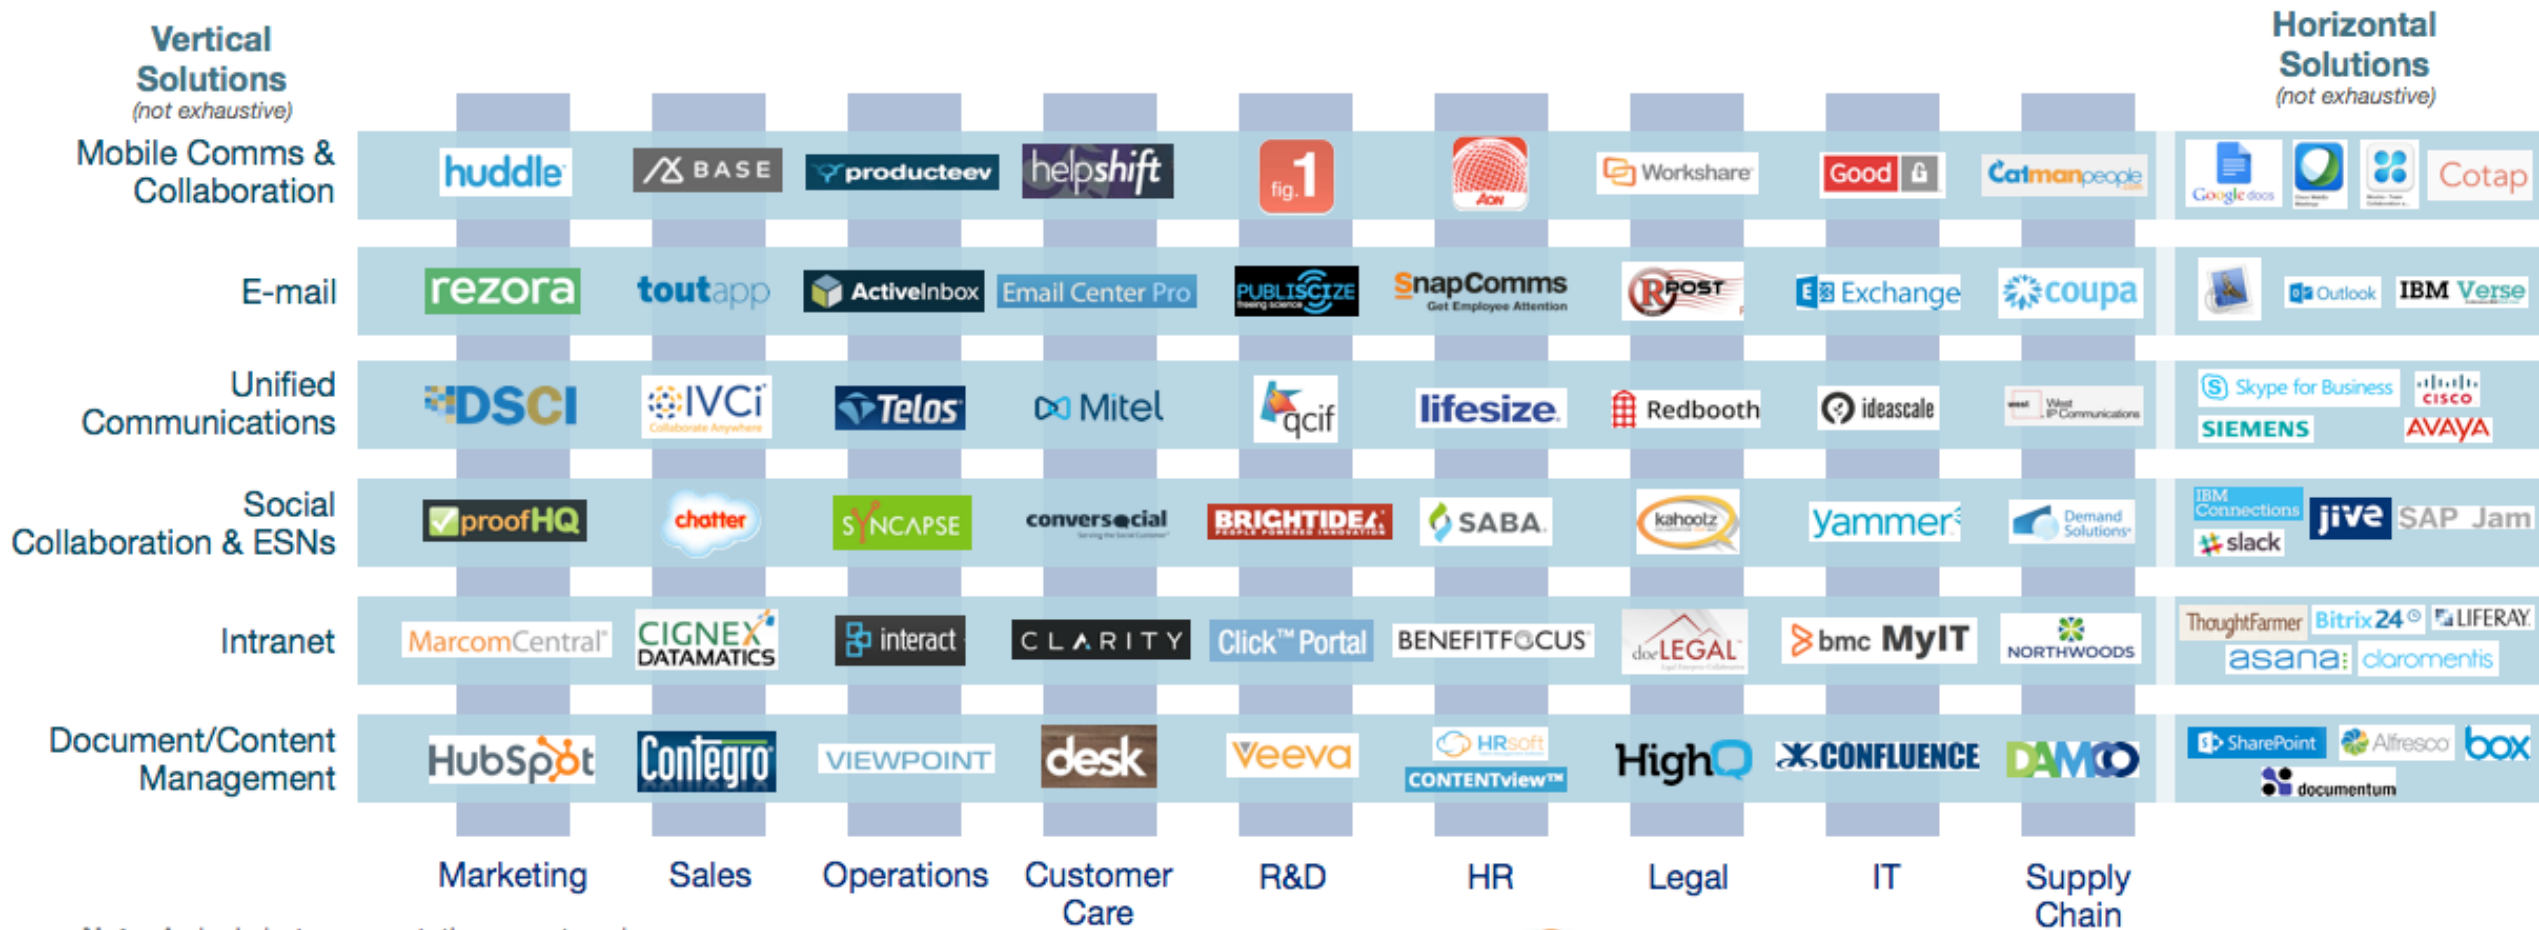

What are the challenges?

Time, time, time!

61% of knowledge workers
need to access 4 or more systems and 13% need to access 11 or more systems on a daily basis to get the information that they need for their jobs.

Microsoft 365 is an answer, but none to all questions!

Note: A single but representative app at each intersection, but many additional options exist

What is Status Quo for users today?

Office Tools

Business
Applications

The amount of available information increasing continuously

The distribution of information
increasing significantly.

Users have to move
in more complex IT landscapes.

Redundancies of functions in different users are increasing.

You don't have an overview of information!

Or: How well Atlassian Confluence and Jira play together with Microsoft 365?

Information is either coincidence or the result of time-consuming work

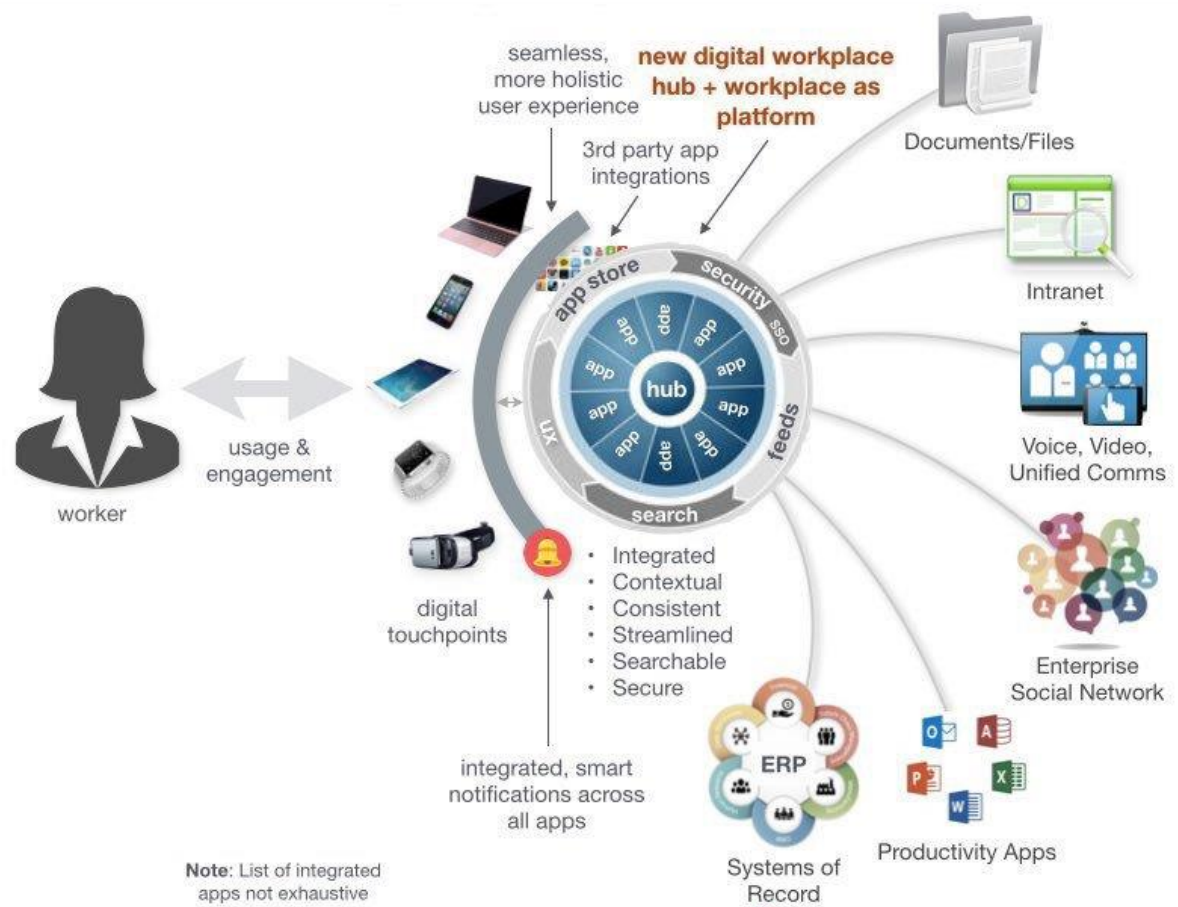

Tasks are distributed in Confluence, in Outlook as mail and as a task, in Planner, in Jira and... on your desk in the form of a piece of paper

It is unclear which projects have existed and where they are organizing

Digital Workplace Hub - an alternative approach

The Digital Workplace Hub is the access to the digital landscape of the available applications.

It supports users through integration, aggregation, personalization and intelligence.
